Seen smoking cigarette at gas station on Hillsborough Street. The missing extinguisher is an added touch.

See?  It just goes to show that they have not cured the common cold OR stupidity. If they ever do, I am out of a job!

Goes to show you, buisness is good, people are still ignorant to the fact that they can indeed be injured or killed by stupid practices. Even with the best fire safety programs, people will still be stupid. As for the missing extinguisher, the gas station owner must really care about a safe environment for his customers, what a way to keep them coming back, I smell a fine $$.
